

PyTorch was originally developed by Facebook AI Research (FAIR), which is now known as Meta AI.

The development of PyTorch began in 2016 as an open-source machine learning framework, building upon the Torch library. While initially a project within Facebook, its administration was transferred to the neutral PyTorch Foundation, part of the Linux Foundation, in 2022 to foster broader community collaboration and development.